Golan artillery duel persists

By United Press International

Israeli and Syrian forces fought artillery duels on several sectors of the Golan Heights today in spite of the historic troop disengagement agreement the two nations will sign Friday in Geneva which will end months of fighting in the Middle East.

A Syrian military communique also said "units of our armored forces are clashing with enemy tanks, inflicting losses on them." Israeli communiqués made no mention of tank battles.

It was the 80th consecutive day of fighting along the Golan Heights front.

U.S. officials had no immediate comment.

Nixon warned defiance impeachment grounds

(C) Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee, by a vote of 28-10, today authorized a sharply worded letter to President Nixon warning that his defiance of its subpoenas "might constitute a ground for impeachment."

Eight Republicans joined 20 Democrats in approving the letter, which censures the President for failing to comply with two Watergate subpoenas issued by the committee on May 15.

The committee on the judiciary regards your refusal to comply with its subpoenas as a grave matter, the letter, written by Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said.

"Under the Constitution it is not within the power of the President to conduct an inquiry into his own impeachment, to determine which evidence, and what version or portion of that evidence, is relevant and necessary to such an inquiry."

In meeting their constitutional responsibility, the letter warned, "committee members will be free to consider whether your refusal (to honor demands for evidence) warrant (the drawing of) adverse inferences concerning the substance of the materials, and whether your refusal in and of themselves might constitute a ground for impeachment."

Saying the surrender of further White House tapes and other Watergate evidence "would totally weaken" the office of the presidency, Nixon asserted last week that he would not comply with the two May 15 subpoenas which demanded presidential recordings and portions of Nixon's daily activity logs.

Avoid fast decision, Nixon asks US Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

President Nixon asked the Supreme Court today not to make a "hasty determination" whether he should surrender new evidence in the Watergate cover-up case.

In a brief filed in the high court, Nixon's attorneys said it would be far better to allow the Judicial process "to run its orderly course" and for the case to first clear the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia, where it is now docketed.

In a brief filed in the high court, Nixon's attorneys said it would be far better to allow the Judicial process "to run its orderly course" and for the case to first clear the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia, where it is now docketed.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski is seeking tapes and records of 64 White House conversations and wants the Supreme Court to decide in the next few weeks whether he can have them.

Jaworski has asked the justices to take the case away from the appeals court and decide it before the end of the current term in late June.

The President contends executive privilege allows him to withhold the materials.

The President's brief was signed by professor A. Alan Wright of the University of Texas, who has been giving the White House legal assistance; by attorney James D. St.

Clair and other lawyers for the President.

The court meets in its usual private session Friday and could decide then whether to agree to an early ruling or leave the case where it is. An announcement could come Friday or Monday, when the court holds its next public session. Meanwhile, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica refused to turn over four other Watergate tapes to the House Judiciary Committee.

Sirica said "the tapes had originally been subpoenaed for the Watergate grand jury and he had them solely for the purpose of screening them to rule on executive privilege claims."

Professor Sirica said he had no power to turn them over to the committee and said it would have to ask the President itself.

Court holds tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today refused to pass along four White House Watergate tapes to the House Judiciary Committee, saying it "impeachment investigations want them they will have to seek them directly from President Nixon."

Sirica said he was powerless to grant a committee request to be permitted to hear full recordings of four Presidential conversations originally subpoenaed for the Watergate grand jury and now in the court's possession.

The four tape recordings in question cover two presidential conversations on June 20, 1972, and one each on June 30 and Sept. 12 of that year. The conversations took place between the President and his top aides.

Sirica said he is only the "temporary custodian" of the original tapes for the sole reason of screening them in ruling on presidential claims of executive privilege. As such, he said, he has no authority to pass the tapes along to anyone other than the grand jury for which they were subpoenaed.

"This situation is a matter for presidential not judicial response," Sirica said in a memorandum filed with the court. "Requests to listen and copy should be directed to the President."

The committee, if rebuffed, must itself determine what remedy or course it will pursue.

"If on the other hand its application is satisfied, no problem arises. The President will be responsible for his own decision."

Testimony favors standard changes

By EDMITCHELL
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Testimony was generally favorable Wednesday to a proposal to change state water quality standards at the new American Falls Dam.

The testimony was given during a public hearing called by the Idaho Department of Environment and Community Services at the Ponderosa Inn on a petition by the American Falls Reservoir District. The petition asks waiver of state water-quality standards or amending those standards so the cost of building and maintaining a new American Falls Dam can be held down.

The old dam is scheduled for replacement because of deterioration of the concrete structure. It is now operating at reduced capacity to prevent possible structural failure.

The proposed new dam would be financed by irrigation water users who hold space in the reservoir and by Idaho Power Co.

According to present state statutes, water leaving the dam would have to contain six parts per million dissolved oxygen or 90 per cent saturation, whichever is higher. The petition by water users calls for dropping the 90 per cent saturation requirement because of high costs in achieving the standard. Spokesmen for the water users say the six PPM standard can be reached by artificial injection.

Artificial injection of commercial oxygen in reservoir waters would be sufficient to sustain aquatic life. The Snake River from the dam to the back waters of Lake Walcott near Rupert will be affected by the standards.

Accident near Rupert kills girl

RUPERT — A Minidoka County girl was killed early today when struck by a car in front of her home near here.

County officials said Bernice King, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern W. King, was killed about 7 a.m. on North Meridian Road.

Sheriff Theo Johnson said investigation is still in progress but preliminary reports indicate the child was in the center of the roadway when a southbound vehicle driven by Mrs. Barbara M. Lowther, 57, Paul, struck her.

Officials said the driver came over a small hill and was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting the child when she suddenly came into view.

The King girl was pronounced dead at the scene. Walk Mortuary will announce funeral services.

Course set

PARIS (UPI) — President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, in his first official foreign-policy statement, said today he will seek cooperation with the United States on a basis of equal rights, but also will try to be a friend of the Soviet Union and China.

"The new head of state said he will ban the sale of arms to countries who might use them against 'the right of peoples to determine their own future.'"

In a special message to Parliament, the 48-year-old president said he will introduce liberal policies turning France into the defender of people's rights.

Low bidder may be subcontractor

TWIN FALLS — A Boise contractor who withdrew his bid for the Lincoln School bleacher demolition may subcontract for the next highest bidder, who estimated the job would cost about $10,000 more.

Mike Stafford of Stafford Excavation and Demolition told his school trustees in a letter he was "respectfully withdrawing" his bid of $4,239, accepted May 21 by the board. Stafford will forfeit bond of five per cent of the bid, about $212. He had not yet signed a contract, so school officials cannot receive damage payments for withdrawal of the bid.

Stafford told the Times-News May 23 he was withdrawing his bid because the newspaper had printed the bids submitted by other firms. He said printing the other bids alongside his would make him look "foolish," because his bid was far lower than the others. He had requested that the paper not publish the other bid figures.

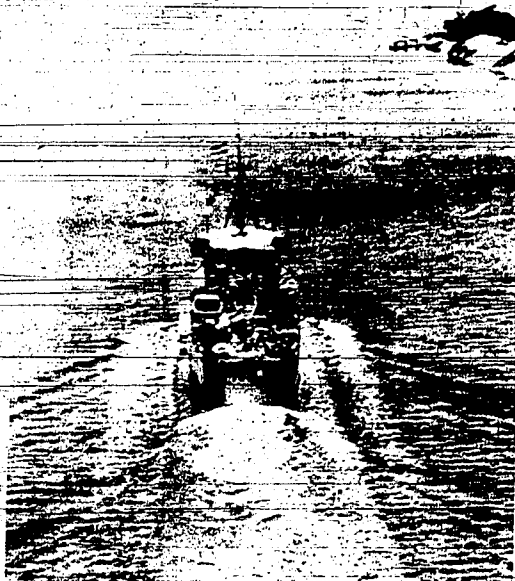

At a Wednesday night meeting, trustees moved to accept the next lowest bid, $14,372, submitted by All Cities Wrecking, Boise.

All Cities owner John Roe said he intended to subcontract at least part of the job to Stafford. Roe said he had accepted other jobs since submitting the bid and needed help to complete the job in time allotted. Also, he said, Stafford had necessary equipment in the area.

School board attorney Fred Decker told trustees the arrangement was legal. The contractor who is awarded the bid agreement is at liberty to make arrangements with subcontractors to get the job done. Decker said the entire project, Decker said, which would delay the construction schedule.

Stafford would start the job, Roe said, but added he planned to work as much as possible on the project. Bleacher demolition could begin as early as June 5, Roe said.

Roe said he had worked with Stafford before, but added it was "beyond me" why Stafford had withdrawn his bid. He said he had no idea why Stafford's bid had been so low.

House probers divided over evidence

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee, completing closed hearings on the Watergate cover-up, appeared divided and uncertain today over whether evidence presented to date had implicated President Nixon in any impeachable misconduct.
But John M. Dear, the committee's special counsel, disclosed that his staff was proposing articles of impeachment in anticipation of an eventual committee request for an evaluation of Watergate and other evidence accumulated in the inquiry.
Having ended closed hearings on the Watergate evidence, the committee will turn next week to other allegations of presidential misconduct.

Rep. William L. Hungate of Missouri and several other Democrats declared that the closed hearings had provided what Hungate called "a prime facie case" against Nixon.
But Rep. Charles E. Wiggins of California said that "the staff has presented the best evidence, it most assuredly is not overwhelming," and a number of his Republican colleagues agreed.
The prevailing attitude, summarized by Rep. Robert McClell, R-Ill., was one of uncertainty, however. McClell said that there was "no clear-cut evidence one way or the other" to exonerate Nixon or implicate him in the Watergate cover-up attempt.

James D. St. Clair, the President's chief defense counsel, initiated a reported new White House strategy of trying to force a swift conclusion to the Watergate phase of the impeachment inquiry.
He told reporters this afternoon that the evidence presented during the eight-day closed hearings was "not very substantial" and said that if it had been a criminal trial he would have been "tempted" to declare that the defense rested its case.

All 'go' for Nixon Mideast trip

(C) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON, May 29 (UPI) — Everything is go for President Nixon's visit next week to the Middle East, according to White House sources.
The trip, which will have few details to be worked out, is expected to take place before June 10 and will include stops in Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Saudi Arabia and perhaps Syria and Algeria.
Nixon would be the first American president to visit the Middle East, which has undergone more than a quarter-century of continual war and strife. His appearance in the various capitals, which would be more ceremonial than substantive, would help to underscore the American role in achieving a Middle East disengagement and perhaps assist Nixon politically at home.

White House officials were waiting for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's return from the Middle East — he is expected this evening — before proceeding with final planning for the presidential journey.
Kissinger, who has been discussing with middle-east officials Nixon's desire to visit the area even as he negotiated the recently concluded disengagement between Israel and Syria, is bringing details of his efforts and will have the last word on the President's itinerary.

White House officials said the current impeachment inquiry by the House Judiciary Committee would not interfere with the travel plans.
The sources also said that the Middle East trip would not interfere with or be a part of the President's projected late-June summit conference with Soviet Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in Moscow. The two foreign trips, sources said, would be conducted separately, with Nixon returning to Washington before

TF merchants, shoppers face penny crunch

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Twin Falls is facing a penny pinch. Banks, merchants and shoppers are all feeling the crunch brought on, area bankers say, by high copper prices and increasing numbers of penny hoarders.

"The penny problem is not one of supply, rather one of circulation," according to William C. Hedges, vice president of operations at the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. "There are billions of pennies in the wrong places," Hedges said.

With increasing numbers of pennies being taken out of circulation, the Federal Reserve System has been forced to cut back penny shipments to local banks by as much as 92 percent. Merchants, in turn, are finding their requests for pennies limited by the banks, and shoppers are having to shell out pennies to pay bills instead of asking for change.

Bankers and merchants in Twin Falls say they are "getting by" and the problem is not yet serious.

"I don't think it's drastic," Richard McKernan, manager of the Bank of Idaho said. "We haven't been able to really supply the demand as much as we'd like. We've been able to service our customers but we've had to limit the amount. Everybody seems to be getting by."

Jack Ramsey, manager of the Idaho First National Bank said the shortage could "develop into a serious problem." If the banks can't supply the retail merchants with pennies they "will either have to re-price or go to some kind of scrip or coupon kind of thing" as several stores in northern California have done, according to Ramsey.

Local grocers have met the shortage with different tactics.

"We heard about the penny shortage beforehand so we started storing pennies in our safe so we're not in that much of a bind," Stan Soares, assistant manager of Albertson's said. Soares said his firm has not yet been hit by the shortage.

Neighborhood cooperation has helped Sweden's Market stay on top of the problem.

"All employees have cashed in the jars of pennies they had on their dressers," manager Jerry Swenson said, and customers, hearing about the shortage "have been bringing some down."

In addition, he said, the store "has adopted the policy of asking customers to give odd pennies that the bill amounts to."

At least once, Swenson said, he went to the bank and "they didn't have any pennies to give us."

"We're endeavoring to build up a little backlog so that if it does become a real problem we could last a little longer," he said.

'Y' aluminum can drive set in TF

TWIN FALLS—Residents of all communities and rural areas of Twin Falls County will receive questionnaires soon on land use planning.

Land use inquiry sent out

TWIN FALLS—The aluminum can drive contest sponsored by the YMCA and YWCA for kids up to 18 years old begins Saturday.

All contestants have to do is collect as many aluminum cans as possible—from home or by cleaning up littered cans—and bring them to the Twin Falls YMCA building by Saturday, June 29, four weeks after the contest begins.

The collectors who weigh in with the most aluminum cans will earn appetite-whetting prizes like a free hamburger from a drive-in each week for a whole year, cases of pop, or all the ice cream possible to eat at one session. Other prizes include baseball bats, movie and bowling passes, and others.

Any boy or girl 18 or under can enter the contest, they don't have to be members of the YMCA or YWCA. Prizes will be awarded five days after the contest closes at 5 p.m. June 29.

Three more contests will be held this summer, during July, August and September. The "Y" will sell the cans and use the proceeds to purchase mats for tumbling, wrestling and exercise classes.

For more information about the contest call 333-9854.

Salmon woman ponders Senate bid

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho may have a three-way race for the United States Senate again this November.

Jean Stoddard, Salmon housewife and weekly newspaper columnist, has taken out nominating petitions for the American Party and says she again may run for the post.

Two years ago she ran against Republican James McClure and Democrat William E. Davis in the general election. She polled 6,885 votes to 161,804 for McClure and 140,913 for Davis.

In 1972, she ran a low-key campaign. If she runs this year her style may be different.

"I've learned a lot from that race," she said in a telephone interview.

A strict "Constitutionalist," Mrs. Stoddard views conservatives as well as liberals with alarm and believes they together have created the problems confronting the nation today.

"I'm not just a conservative," she said. "I'm a constitutionalist. I don't think the problems of this country are ever going to be resolved by conservatives or liberals."

"If we don't get back to the Constitution we're going to have a lot more trouble than we've had," she said. "The working man is in trouble. The farmer is in trouble. The businessman is in trouble."

"And I think it was created by the liberals and the conservatives. They're passing so many bills that are illegal. I think one of the things we need to do is review the laws that have been passed in regard to constitutional aspects. We could save money this way and a lot of trouble — both."

While Mrs. Stoddard said she is seriously considering making the race again, "there's nothing certain about it," it may depend in the long run on whether she has to pay the $250 filing fee and whether she can get the necessary 1,000 signatures on her nominating petitions before June 7, end of the filing period.

A candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Second District, Keith Holve of Idaho Falls, has challenged the constitutionality of the filing fee.

Attorney General W. Anthony Park said his staff is researching the question and has promised an answer before the seven-day filing period opens Saturday.

Mrs. Stoddard also questions the filing fee, saying it is discriminatory and "I think the laws have to operate evenly on all alike."

"The filing fee is almost prohibitive for poor people," she said.

A native of North Dakota, Mrs. Stoddard has lived in Idaho for 31 years. She taught school for years but now spends her time as a housewife and a writer. She has 10 children.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Blood types cause marital worries

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My marriage seems to have fallen apart. My husband accuses me of having relations with another man, which is not true. I've never done anything like that but his imagination has taken hold of him.

He says the children aren't his because his blood is type O. Mine I do not know. Our daughter is a son and son is B. He says his is not possible because his is O type.

I know they are his but he says he has to have proof and then will beg forgiveness. Please answer with definite statements, no buts or ands, please. — D.H.

If you don't want any buts or ands, then why don't you have your blood typed?

A child's blood type is not determined by that of one parent; it depends on the types of both parents.

Your husband is entirely wrong when he says type A or B in "their" children is "impossible" because he is type O.

A type O parent can have children of either type A or type B if the other parent is type AB.

So don't you think you'd better have your own blood typed? If it turns out type AB, then it will be time for your husband to start begging forgiveness. He just doesn't understand how ABO blood types behave.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 51 and haven't had a menstrual period for a year. Would hormone pills start the menstrual periods again? Basically what are they for? What are the chances of getting pregnant after that length of time? Would I be safe in using foam and is it effective? — M.R.S.

After a year without periods, you can forget about pregnancy.

Hormone medication may cause some breakthrough bleeding but they will not be true menstrual periods. Such medication is given to combat such physiological symptoms as hot flashes — your ovaries have ceased producing female hormones and that leads to the hot flashes in some (not all) women. So you are given hormones to make up for the hormones no longer being secreted by the ovaries.

I see no need whatever for you to use foam contraceptives. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there anything you can do to prevent swelling of the eyelids after a bout of crying? After watching a sad show last night, I cried. I was shocked to see what my eyes looked like. Why does this happen? — Mrs. O.M.K.

The tissues around the eyes are thin. Put your finger to the area and you can feel the difference. This is the reason for the congestion associated with crying. The resultant fluid accumulation causes a puffiness and a discoloration.

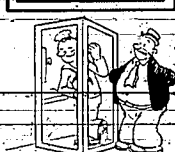

It is variable with different people and there is really little that can be done. Often, though, cold compresses will help.

The only other thing I can suggest is that you watch your diet.

Guarantee offered

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Democratic Senate candidate John Durkin today announced a dollars for Durkin fund raising campaign including a "money back guarantee" to the contributors.

Durkin said in a statement that his fund raising program "seeks to involve and gain the participation and support of only one special interest group — the people."

If the contributor is not satisfied with Durkin's performance, if elected, the contribution will be refunded.

"For altogether too long," said Durkin, "our money politicians have shaken our trust before an election and our confidence afterward."

To underscore that he will live up to his campaign promises, Durkin said he is "offering as part of the dollars for Durkin program a money back guarantee to the citizens of New Hampshire."

Laughter follows accord

HAPPY after announcement of Golan Heights troop withdrawal terms, U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, Israel Prime Minister Golda Meir and other Israeli cabinet members, Mrs. Meir kissed Kissinger and told him, "I never thought you would kiss a woman." (UPI)

Golan troop pullback terms told

CAIRO (UPI) — The United States today released the text of the eight-point military disengagement agreement between Israel and Syria providing for an immediate cease-fire when it is signed Friday and complete troop disengagement in the Golan Heights within four weeks.

The disengagement agreement contains eight main points, with six points governing the troop disengagement itself. It contained few surprises and the separate documents governing a thinning out of forces were not released.

With the agreement released was a map showing the cease-fire line and a buffer zone and a protocol outlining the function of the United Nations Disengagement Observers Force (UNDOF) to police it.

The text of the agreement provided that the Israeli and Syrian officers within the military working group will begin working out a detailed plan for the disengagement within 24 hours after the agreement is signed, and completed in another 20 days.

All wounded prisoners will be exchanged within 24 hours of the agreement.

Line A marked the cease-fire line. It roughly followed the 1967 cease-fire line with bulges to include the town of Quneitra and certain other villages under Syrian control.

Line A-1 marked a bulge around Quneitra to the base of three overlooking hills that will be demilitarized. The Israelis will control the crest of the hills.

Line B, to the east, marked the other side of a buffer zone ranging from about 1.2 to 3.6 miles wide. Syrian civil administration will be permitted in the buffer zone, but no troops except the U.N. forces.

On both sides of the buffer zone there will be a thinning out of forces, but those are outlined in the secret American proposal signed by both sides. Israeli sources said they included three zones on each side with specifications of what would be permitted in each.

Kissinger heads home, stops off with Sadat

CAIRO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Cairo en route home today to meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and brief him on the historic eight-point Israeli-Syrian agreement for troop separation in the Golan Heights.

Attitude opinion changes

(C) New York Times Service BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Vice President Gerald Ford, in an apparent shift of views, said here Wednesday President Nixon's attitude in reaching a four-point demand for additional material "is proper" at this time.

He said that until the House Judiciary Committee opens its impeachment inquiry to the public, analyzes material it already has on hand and hears potential witnesses, "I can understand the attitude of the White House."

In recent days, the vice president had criticized the President's decision to last week to deny the committee any further tapes or other materials. He said last Thursday night, for example, that the White House should supply requested material "and the sooner the better."

The vice president said late last week that the White House's "sneaky attitude" was not politically wise and that it could increase chances for impeachment of the President.

But at a news conference here, the vice president sharply modified his earlier stand.

"I will keep pressing the committee to open up their hearings," he said. "I will keep pressing them to call these witnesses. Until they have done that, I think the President's attitude is proper."

President Anwar Sadat and brief him on the historic eight-point Israeli-Syrian agreement for troop separation in the Golan Heights.

Kissinger arrived in Cairo from Israel for the brief stopover to tell Sadat about the agreement.

The secretary of state was scheduled to be back in Washington tonight, 33 days after setting out on his longest, toughest and most complicated Middle East peace mission.

Before leaving Israel, Kissinger said the pact could be a "turning point in the history of the Middle East."

A high American official said that Kissinger was on the point of giving up three times during his tough 36-day negotiations, but each time he was paralyzed because he felt that war would result if he failed.

"The United States is dedicated to a permanent peace in the Middle East," Kissinger said in a brief statement on arrival at Cairo airport, where he was met by Foreign Minister Ismail Fahim.

Kissinger has been agreed to now is considered by some as a first step towards that goal for which we will work closely and with confidence with your (Egyptian) government and your leaders," Kissinger said.

The disengagement agreement contained eight main points, with six points governing the troop disengagement itself. It contained few surprises and the separate documents governing a thinning out of forces were not released.

The text of the agreement called for Israeli and Syrian officers in a military working group to begin working out a detailed plan for the disengagement within 24 hours after the agreement is signed, and completed within five days.

Disengagement will begin 24 hours after that and be completed in another 20 days.

New auto mileage figures said right

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto industry claims of fuel economy improvements of as much as 20 per cent on the larger 1975 models are not exaggerated, says a high official of the federal agency that publishes mileage figures.

Eric O. Stark, Environmental Protection Agency deputy assistant administrator, said Wednesday that estimates made last fall that fuel economy would improve by about 8 per cent and those of General Motors that mileage would be up by 13 per cent were too conservative.

Stark also said there should be less confusion in the public's mind when fuel economy figures for 1975 models are published than was evident last fall for the 1974 models. The EPA obtains its mileage figures from auto companies while certifying that cars meet federal emission requirements.

"Our testing and preliminary data certainly suggest that our estimates as well as those for GM will turn out to have been too conservative," Stark told newsmen after a meeting with auto industry executives at the EPA's automobile testing laboratory Wednesday in near-by Ann Arbor.

Opening lead—2♦

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Four spades isn't a very good contract, but South doesn't have much of an opening bid.

Things start out nicely for him since West opens the deuce of clubs and South does not have to guess in that suit. East takes the ace and leads a club back.

South draws two rounds of trumps with his ace and queen and continues by leading the five, not the jack of diamonds. Dummy's queen loses to East's king and right there Reese and Dornier separate the men from the boys.

In order for East to beat the contract he must lead a heart. It looks like a really desperate play to do this. Yet if East stops to count to 10 he will make the play.

West had opened the deuce of clubs to show four. Hence South started with three clubs. He is going to make six spades, one club the king already taken a club ruff, and the ace of diamonds. Thus if he is sure of his contract, a heart lead might cost an overtrick but it also might beat the contract and a heart should be led.

Sparkman hints switch to chair of Senate foreign relations unit

(C) Newhouse News Service—WASHINGTON—Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., strongly indicated Wednesday he will take over the chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee next January.

The defeat of the present chairman, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., at the Arkansas Democratic primary Tuesday opens the way for Sparkman to become head of the prestigious foreign relations committee, but—under Senate rules—Sparkman will have to give up his chairmanship of the Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee to do so.

"Foreign relations is the most prestigious committee in Congress," Sparkman said in a telephone interview from his home in Huntsville, Ala. "It deals with our involvement throughout the world and is the part of Congress that seeks to chart a course through world affairs," the 74-year-old Senator said. Although Sparkman does not intend to announce officially his decision until the Senate Democratic Steering Committee meets next January, he leaves little doubt as to what his decision will be.

Sparkman, a lawyer, was elected to the House in 1936 where he served 10 years prior to his election to the Senate. He served as a delegate to the United Nations in 1950 and 1951 and was the Democratic vice-presidential nominee in 1952 on the ticket with the late Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

During the Johnson and Nixon administrations, he has been considered the senior administration supporter on the foreign relations committee. While Fulbright has often opposed White House foreign policy, especially the Vietnam war, Sparkman has tended to follow the view of the President rather than Congress has primary responsibility in foreign affairs.

Secretary (Henry) Kissinger has worked what amounts to a miracle in foreign policy, particularly in the Middle East," the Alabama Senator said.

"I had a call from Washington giving me a report on the settlement he has worked out there," Sparkman said from Huntsville. The call was an "indication of the esteem in which he is held at the White House."

In recent years, Fulbright has often let Sparkman manage the controversial committee bills, particularly foreign aid, on the Senate floor. Sparkman also has served often as acting chairman of the committee while Fulbright was absent, and is currently chairman of the European affairs subcommittee.

Officially, Sparkman's Washington office is saying that it is premature for him to make a decision on which committee he will head next year and that he is leaving his options open, but his press secretary said, "The odds are extremely great, based on his zeal for foreign affairs and his interest in foreign affairs, that he will change chairmanships."

The change will elevate Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to the chairmanship of the banking committee—a move the financial community has been trying to avoid.

Executives of banks, savings and loan institutions and mortgage loan companies contributed heavily to Sparkman's reelection campaign in 1972 when it appeared that former chairman, Sen. William M. Blount, was going to give him a tough race.

The financial community also made large contributions to the Fulbright campaign this year, apparently trying to help return him to office.

Sparkman would not have the option of giving up the banking committee.

Proxmire is one of the more vocal opponents of big business in the Senate—and many banking executives fear that as chairman of the committee, he would stall legislation they deem beneficial to their interests.

One Southern Senator said Wednesday that he feels Sparkman's apparent decision to change chairmanships means that he will not seek reelection in 1976.

"He will be 78 when he comes up for reelection and he will need all the help he can get," the Senator said. "Banking would get him much more help than foreign relations could."

Sparkman has been a favorite speaker for banking and housing conventions for several years. He cut down the number of speeches he made last year to only seven, however, and the fees he earned—a total of $8,000—went to establish a scholarship fund he set up at a high school named for him in Madison County, Ala.

Big Wall

The Great Pyramid built by Khufu (Cheops) ca. 2550 B.C. was built on a square base with an area of 13 acres, or seven average-sized city blocks. The six million tons of material used in the construction would, as Napoleon figured in 1798, be enough to build a 10-foot wall around the whole of France. Cut into standard-sized bricks and laid end-to-end, the Great Pyramid would reach from the South to the North.

Sen. Church lauds Fulbright efforts

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, paid tribute to Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Arkansas, for his efforts to bring the Senate Foreign Relations Committee back to life.

"Bill Fulbright has been a stand-up Senator during a period when most have preferred to sit," Church said after learning of Fulbright's defeat in the Arkansas primary.

"As chairman, he brought the Senate Foreign Relations Committee back to life and he tried his best to develop a renaissance in the Senate itself. So he will leave an historic mark that will be remembered long after his time. This can be said of few men," Church said.

Kidnaping foiled

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Four policemen were wounded; one of them critically, early today in a shootout between nearly 100 policemen and three men, foiled in an apparent kidnap attempt.

Cleveland Patrolman Gerald Schetterer, 39, originally reported as killed, was listed in critical condition at Huron Road Hospital in suburban East Cleveland. One other officer from the Cleveland Police Department and two East Cleveland patrolmen were listed in fair condition at the hospital.

Police said the sequence of events began Wednesday night when a man tentatively identified as Andrew Jackson, 39, East Cleveland, was kidnapped by five black men on Fourth Avenue in Cleveland.

Jackson escaped, apparently, while being taken to his home, police said.

East Cleveland Police Lt. Richard Hrovat said a preliminary investigation shows that this kidnapping was somewhat related to drugs.

He said two of the men then fled the area, and the other three forced their way into the East Cleveland home of William J. O'Brien and held the family hostage. The two men who fled remained at large today.

House delivers OEO death blow

(New York Times Service) WASHINGTON — The House of Representatives voted Wednesday to kill the Office of Economic Opportunity, the anti-poverty agency that has disbursed $12.5 billion since its creation 10 years ago.

The action came as the House passed by a vote of 311 to 107 a bill that not only would eliminate the OEO but also transfer most of its few remaining programs to a newly-created Community Action Administration that would be set up as an arm of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Over the years other sections of OEO have been shifted to the departments of HEW, Housing and Urban Development, and Labor, as well as the Small Business Administration and ACTION.

The action came as few members of the House rose to mourn the end of the agency described a decade ago by President Johnson as "being designed to bring a final victory to the highly publicized War Against Poverty."

The most hotly debated item during the four hours of floor action on the bill was an amendment, passed by a vote of 390 to 91, that would prohibit the use of federal funds to pay for abortions.

Introduced by Rep. Harold V. Efron, R-Wis., the amendment states that "no financial assistance shall be extended for medical assistance or support in cases of abortion."

Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., argued against the amendment, stating that it would translate a situation in which poor people would be denied abortions because they could not afford to pay for them.

Donald M. Fraser, D-Wis., told his colleagues that the amendment wouldn't outlaw abortion — only for the poor.

The Efron amendment is similar to at least four others that have been added to other bills in both houses recently. Two of these amendments to the foreign aid bill and the public health bill, have already been enacted.

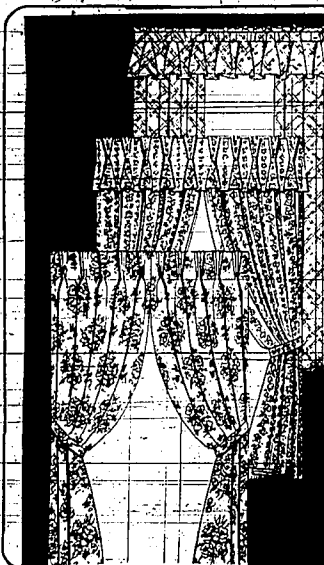

There was surprisingly little debate on the financial provisions of the bill, which would authorize $3.75 billion for anti-poverty programs during fiscal years 1975, 1976 and 1977. These funds go to such programs as:

— Head Start, which provides classes, recreation and meals for preschool children, $1.58 billion.

— Community Action, which aids the creation of local groups that help the poor obtain jobs and education, $1 billion.

— Follow Through, which gives special assistance to children going from Head Start into grade school, $400 million. Additionally, funds would be used to aid Indians, migrant workers, pregnant women and the elderly. Federal money also would be used to purchase and distribute emergency food supplies, assist rural housing, create local consumer groups, and combat pollution.

The bill, which specifically repeals the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, was sent to the Senate, which has taken no action on it as yet.

Patman bill advances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After almost a decade of fruitless efforts, Rep. Wright Patman, Texas, succeeded in bringing a bill to the House floor that would give Congress some oversight of the Federal Reserve Board.

Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, has long criticized both the policies and the secrecy of the "Fed" in handling the nation's monetary policies. But until this year he was blocked in even getting a bill to the floor.

The bill, which has been attacked in a heavy lobbying effort by banking interests, would allow a GAO audit of the country's central bank at least once every three years.

Thereports of member banks would be excluded from the audit to protect the confidentiality of commercial bank operations, along with transactions conducted by the Fed on behalf of foreign central banks.

'Impeachment' timepiece set

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (UPI)—For all those who thrilled to the Mickey Mouse and Spino Agnew watches, a new campy timepiece is set to hit the market—the "Impeachment Time" watch.

The brainchild of a conservative Southfield businessman, termed a "very straight guy" by friends, the brightly-colored watch features a caricature of President Nixon with his hands raised in the familiar two-finger salute.

Surrounding the cartoon is the legend "Impeachment Time" and beneath it, "with honor."

Creator Marty Mattler, who heads a small medical supply firm, says he figured people were fed up with Nixon and could use the watch to show their feeling about "impeachment."

"Marty recalled that Nixon was always talking about peace with honor," said Lois Winsen, Mattler's publicist, "so he decided it was time to talk about impeachment with honor."

Initial production of the watch is scheduled to run in "the thousands," said Mrs. Winsen, and it will sell for $19.95 through mail order only, beginning Thursday.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old married woman with three children. At school I was called "Pinocchio" because my nose was so long. I also was teased because I was flat-chested. This gave me a very bad inferiority complex. Last summer I decided to see a plastic surgeon, so I looked in the yellow pages and picked out a name I liked and made an appointment. He charged me $25 just to tell me he wanted $1,500 to do my nose, and $3,000 for silicone implants, cash in advance! I don't have that much money now.

I was so desperate I wrote to President Nixon and asked if he knew of a plastic surgeon who would do it for less. I told him that life wasn't worth living without those operations.

Long nose,
flat chest

He forwarded my letter to the Mental Health Department, and they suggested I call "Suicide Prevention"—if I felt the need to talk to somebody.

Abby—I hate to go anywhere because I always see women with little noses and big bosoms and I feel like crawling into a hole.

Please, please help me.

A MISERABLE MESS

DEAR MISERABLE: You can't be as big a mess as you say because at least one man thought you were appealing enough to marry.

Start with your nose. Call your county medical society for the names of plastic surgeons who would let you pay on time. Also, try a university medical school.

Nobody has everything, dear. Write to Frederick's, of Hollywood for their lingerie catalogue. Their padded bras are realistic; they could fool a nursing baby. And, good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I do volunteer work at my child's school three mornings a week, and I enjoy it. I do not gossip. I mind my own business, and I am not better acquainted with my child's teachers than any other parent.

I felt quite satisfied with myself until my husband asked me to find some other kind of volunteer work. He says he "knows" my child resents Mother "nosying around" school.

Our child is an average student with no problems, and I was of the opinion that he enjoyed seeing me in school. All the mothers I know do some volunteer work involving their children. (Sounding Sunday school, etc.) I am at a loss to figure this out. Can you?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: No. Ask your husband how he knows what he claims to know, and if he doesn't come up with something convincing, just keep on doing what you're doing.

DEAR ABBY: A man in prison for murder wrote and asked you if murder was a forgivable sin. He said he could find no reference to it in the Bible. All he could find were references to "an eye for an eye."

Your reply to this man is sin that will not be forgiven by sincere repentance. Was beautiful. Perhaps it would be useful to further point out that three of the most admired persons in the Bible were also murderers—Moses, David and Paul. So surely if these men could rise to such heights after having committed such an act, I should have a way for anyone to do so.

Fertilizer production boost needed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The world may scrape through its 1974 fertilizer shortage without a major food crisis, but a sharp expansion in fertilizer production will be needed to head off serious trouble by the end of the decade, a government report warns.

The analysis, prepared by Agriculture Department economists for the Senate Agriculture Committee, said U. S. farmers may harvest record crops this year despite shortages of nitrogen and phosphate fertilizers. It added that even in the countries most vulnerable to shortages and high prices for imported fertilizers—India, Bangladesh and Pakistan—crops could reach record levels. If the weather is good.

The report added, however, that the amount of fertilizer needed to keep food output rising with world population figures is growing rapidly. By 1980, experts estimated, world demand for nitrogen fertilizer is expected to reach about 60 million tons, compared to about 45 million tons in 1973. If this happens, world fertilizer production capacity will have to be expanded by about 10 million tons beyond the level currently in sight for 1980, analysts said.

The report made no specific forecast about probable growth of fertilizer capacity beyond 1979, when world supply is expected to reach 56.6 million tons of nitrogen, still a "tight balance" with needs that could increase—developing nations struggling with local shortages and high prices. But experts appeared hopeful that the pull of growing demand will produce the multibillion dollar investments needed to increase nitrogen supplies.

In China, for example, officials have recently announced plans for several future nitrogen plants which were not included in the 1973 capacity estimates, and recent plans for new ammonia plants in the Soviet Union could make a further dent in the potential 1980 shortage. Beyond that, the report noted that many Middle East oil countries have ample supplies of the raw materials needed to expand fertilizer production, and Bolivia has substantial reserves of natural gas which could be funneled to nitrogen plants in Brazil.

For this year, the report said, world nitrogen fertilizer supplies appear to be 1 million tons bigger than demand. But despite that, theoretical surplus, experts said marketing difficulties and high prices will leave developing countries like India facing severe shortages.

These countries willing and able to pay the price will get the nitrogen they need. But economically weak countries will have to accept reduced supplies, the report said. Ironically, it is the weak countries which need the fertilizer worst because they depend heavily on new "green revolution" wheat varieties which do not yield well unless they get heavy doses of fertilizer, the report pointed out.

SWENSEN'S MARKETS SLAY DRAGON — DRAGONS ARE REAL — FIRST SIGHTING SINCE 1454

Swenson's Magic Markets recently learned that there was a genuine fire breathing dragon in the neighborhood, where upon they immediately purchased a giant white charger (horse), a flashlight, a sword, and asbestos suit (protection against flames from dangerous mouth) and sallied forth to rescue many young damsels from the dragon's clutches. As luck would have it, Swenson's located the dragon in a large cave (naturally) and with brave use of swinging sword and asbestos suit, slay the dragon and rescued all the fair young maidens.

Swenson's later learned that the dragon's name was Inflation and that the maiden in distress is every housewife in Magic Valley. But dragon stories always have a happy ending, and for proof that the inflation dragon is dead, see the specials in Swenson's ad this weekend. And even if you don't believe in dragons or dragon stories, you can believe the prices at Swenson's Magic dragon killer Markets.

Indians deserve buffalo

MUSKEGON, Mich. (UPI) — Dwayne W. Cummings, an osteopathic physician and a member of the "buffalo brigade," thinks it's time that the government give some buffaloes back to the Indians.

"We've been working on the idea of getting the government to supply Indians with the 1,000 or so surplus buffaloes in our nation's parks," he said.

Cummings has a vested interest in both buffaloes and Indians. He is part Sioux and is free on personal recognition bond after being indicted on a charge of interfering with federal officials because he helped a Sioux food and medicine to the Sioux during the 73-day occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., last year. He is known as the Buffalo Warrior because of his knowledge of bison and the fact he and his wife have a herd of about 30 of them on his farm at Stanwood, Mich.

Cummings said buffalo would be an "excellent protein source" for Indians, many of whom are now going hungry. "They are still starving on reservations," he said. "Little children suffer from lack of protein in their diet and the average life expectancy of an Indian is 40 years."

"The buffalo have a unique protein in their muscle. The meat is higher in essential amino acids, and lower in cholesterol and saturated fatty acids."

He said in the last 10 years the government has learned how to breed buffalo, so the bands are growing.

Demo seeks 3rd term

POCAHELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Pocahello Democrat Wayne L. Lovelless plans to seek a third term as a member of the State House of Representatives from District 34.

In announcing his candidacy Wednesday, Lovelless said "My pledge would be to again serve the people in the district in the protection of all their rights and to help protect the constitutions that grant their freedom."

2nd term eyed by Corral man

CORRAL — State Representative C. Lee Barron, Corral, has announced he will seek re-election from district 22 — Camas and Elmore Counties.

Barron, a one-term veteran, he will call for a reduction of state government, with increased power of governing granted locally in his campaign.

"I believe that our citizens can spend their tax dollars more efficiently themselves rather than by leaving it to some bureaucrat to do it for them," Barron said in a prepared statement.

Barron said he refused to believe that overhead cannot be trimmed and service cannot be improved. Each Idahoan pays an average of $408.27, about 11 per cent of his income in state and local taxes per year. The number of state employees has gone from 8,000 to 13,000 in the past four years.

"The people of our district need a representative who is aware of these trends and is willing to do something about them," the candidate said.

Barron, 38, is vice-president of Sun Valley Ranches, Inc. and president of Rocky Mountain Grain, Inc. and Camas Well Drillers, Inc. Past president of the "Fairfield Chamber of Commerce and on the board of directors of the American Conservative Union, Barron has been active in the Young Republican organization at local, state and national levels.

A Masonic lodge member, he is married with two sons and a daughter.

TF school aides eye lone project bid

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school officials are considering the only bid submitted for the first phase of the school bond construction project.

Nelson & Company, Twin Falls, submitted a bid of $1,298,800 for remodeling and additions to Morningside, Harrison, Lincoln and Robert Stuart Junior High schools.

Bids were opened at a meeting of District 41 trustees and administration officials Wednesday evening.

Two other firms, Miller Construction, Boise, and Otis Hall Construction, Twin Falls, had been expected to bid on the project but school officials received notice late Wednesday that bids would not be entered.

Architect Ed Peterson said the bid was "fairly close in line with what we were talking about" and added that as long as the bid was within-budget limits, it could be accepted by trustees.

The bid, insurance and bond will be checked out by Peterson before the board takes action at its next meeting, June 4.

According to one contractor, the bid form may have discouraged contractors from bidding on the project. Trustees had divided the project into three different sections, requiring separate bids, so that smaller contractors could bid on parts of the project. But only Nelson & Co., one of the largest firms in the area, completed the 22 different estimates needed to come up with a final figure.

In other business, the board members approved the hiring of eight additional teachers, four men and four women. Among the newly-hired teachers, whose experience ranges from none to twelve years, are a school psychologist, a resource teacher for special education and a Spanish and French teacher for the junior high schools.

The board also formally adopted a long-accepted policy to count as experience only those years teachers were employed in public schools. Teaching experience at private, parochial or college-level schools is not considered in determining a teacher's starting position on the salary scale.

Officials testify

AF dam proposal draws mostly favorable views

About 80 persons attended the hearing to give and hear testimony on the petition. Most of these represented water user groups holding space in the reservoir. Representative of Canal companies and irrigators testified that a DECS grant of the waiver on standards, Opposition came from the Idaho League of Women Voters, the American Falls Bridge Committee and several private environmentalists.

State Senator John Barker, Buhl, president of the American Falls Reservoir District said if the dam continues to deteriorate without replacement, "the ultimate result will be no foray fishery, no improvement in the fishery habitat that now exists and no large body of water for boating, or habitat for large concentrations of water fowl, no flood control, and last but not least, a severe curtailment of irrigated land and the resulting loss of upland game bird habitat."

"We hope you will make an amendment or variance to the water-quality standards to that stretch of the Snake River to assist us in this long-range project of rebuilding the American Falls dam," Barker said.

The Idaho League of Women Voters opposed the variance as "setting an extremely undesirable precedent."

Their letter to DECS said, "Although this case might be of some special nature, one wonders how many times other special cases would get that sort of treatment."

The League called the granting of a variance a "permissive action" likely to encourage other cases of the same type.

Ben Caviness, attorney for the American Falls Bridge Committee, said his organization opposes granting the petition at least until more evidence on the environmental effects of the new dam is made public.

He said, "Viable alternatives to this action were not fully explored."

He suggested bypassing the electric turbines in the new dam during one month of the worst water conditions would allow irrigation of the new dam in such a way as to improve an alternative which would not require high construction costs.

Caviness said he had heard people say they "hoped the action would not have any adverse effects on fish life but there are no hard facts on studies upon which to base their expressions of wishful thinking."

Tom Nelson, Twin Falls, attorney for the American Falls Reservoir District said the district does not see why the costs of building the new dam in such a way as to improve current water conditions should be borne by the water users.

The responsibility for high water standards belongs to those who benefit from them, he said.

Nelson said spilling water from the dam is one of the most expensive methods of aeration and would have to be done from June through October to be effective in meeting the standards.

Dr. Lee Stokes, director of the environmental services division of DECS, said the department has taken a favorable stand on the position from the water users, but the situation will be reviewed in the light of the testimony.

A decision may come during the June 21 meeting of the DECS board at Priest Lake.

The stolen vehicle was demolished. Lincoln County Sheriff B. J. Anderson said The owner said it had been stolen around 10 p.m. Tuesday.

In the second accident, Jessie Renner wrecked his automobile about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday three and a half miles west of Richfield. Damage was estimated at $1,200. The car left the road and overturned.

Barker backs initiative

BJHL — Rep. John Barker, R-Buhl, has endorsed the initiative for a "Presidential Primary in Idaho."

Eighty per cent of the state's delegates to national conventions would be elected while 20 per cent of the delegates would be chosen in a state convention, under the initiative plan.

No damage from flood

HAILEY — There is still no reported damage from Big Wood flood waters as the water depth dropped to 5.53 feet this morning.

Large trees were being whaled down the river, some becoming lodged between rocks and boulders. A tree was reported lodged near the Hailey sewer treatment plant late Wednesday night.

There were reports of some water backed up in the sewer lines from the river but Martin Albreitner, plant groundskeeper, said, "There is no problem." He said the tree would be removed today.

County crews have been lifting debris from the river and report a tendency for debris to jam up at the Deer Creek bridge.

The banks there are leveled but broken trees and limbs are causing water to divert toward the bank, adding pressure to it, according to a county bridge crew spokesman.

The Soil Conservation Service will measure water content and snow depth today in the high elevations feeding the Big Wood River.

The readings were 160 to 185 per cent of normal on May 1. According to SCS conservationist Doug Blalock, the recent two week cold spell shut off most of the runoff.

Sale eyed on rim lots

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Building lots are up for sale in the once-controversial Meander Point Subdivision on the Snake River canyon rim.

The housing development was stalled for several months during negotiations for a 50-foot access right-of-way to the property. The access was required by the Twin Falls County commissioners when they approved the project last October.

Harold Frazier, Twin Falls, the Meander Point developer today said right-of-way has been secured from property owners along the existing dirt road to the subdivision. The planned 35-acre project is located just east of Rock Creek on the south Snake River canyon rim.

Frazier said he has "reached an agreement" with property owner James Sinclair and the Sam Stradley family for the access route. "The 50-foot right-of-way is on record now," he said. He would not disclose details of the agreement.

"The deed for the right-of-way" has been transferred to the Twin Falls Highway District, which has promised to develop the road, according to Frazier.

Twin Falls County Commissioner William Wiseman, who voted against the Meander Point project, today said he could not confirm that the required right-of-way has been secured. "We're going to check it," he said.

The subdivision was the center of a controversy after its approval last year.

Plant to open at Caldwell

CALDWELL — J. R. Simplot Co. officials plan to open the Caldwell processing plant Monday.

Procedures for re-opening the Caldwell plant will be the same as were used May 6 to open the Heyburn plant. According to William Maxwell, public relations director for Simplot, Caldwell glassmen will be asked to come back to work. Strikers who do not respond to the call can then be legally replaced.

Both the Caldwell and Heyburn Simplot plants have been closed since the strike by the American Federation of Grain Millers Union began May 2.

Since the re-opening of the Heyburn plant, May 6 production has gradually climbed to 60 per cent of maximum, according to Simplot officials.

Damage

TWO VEHICLES attempting to be in the same place at the same time resulted in damage to both. This truck, driven by Clann Tucker, 25, Oregon, and a car driven by Luis Vasquez, 28, Rupert collided as the truck turned into a narrow lane while the car was passing on the right on North Overland, Arxene in Burley Thursday. Damage was $300 to the truck and $500 to the vehicle. Marie Vasquez, 20, was treated for minor injuries.

Jipeho sets pro indoor mile record in ITA finale

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kenya's Ben Jipeho, who claims he "runs for the money," set the "disputed" world indoor professional record for the mile run with a time of 3:56.5 to end the International Track Association's second year on a glorious note.

Jipeho, a 31-year-old prison officer from Nairobi, who has said in the past he could better than four minutes indoors if somebody sets a fast enough pace, got the "rabbit" he needed when Chuck LaBenz set a blistering pace for the first quarter mile. LaBenz opened up as much as a 30-yard lead before Jipeho set after him and caught him just before the half mile mark.

Urged on by the screaming and cheering of 15,000 fans of Madison Square Garden—the largest crowd ever for an indoor pro track meet, Jipeho, once assuming command, lengthened his lead the rest of the way to win by about 40 yards over Keith Munson who was timed in 4:04. LaBenz eventually finished third while world outdoor holder Jim Ryan came in a disappointing fourth.

Jipeho's time was the fourth fastest indoor mile ever. Tony Waldrop set the world indoor best of 3:55 earlier this year in a meet at San Diego while Tom O'Hara and Ryan both have recorded 3:56.4 times.

Australian Chris Fisher, never bothering to look back, led from start to finish in winning the 800-yard run over Olympic champion Dave Wottle.

Fisher, winner of the Grand Prix point total worth $5,000 for the second straight year in this event, was timed in 1:55.5, missing his own pro record by 3.2 seconds. Former Olympians Lee Evans and George Young won the 400-yard dash and the 1500-yard race respectively.

Both Valentine, coming back after a severely broken right leg a year ago this month, and the Milwaukee Brewers' starting pitcher were ejected in the bottom-of-the-first inning.

Players on both teams poured onto the field.

The fight erupted after Wright, traded to the Brewers from the Angels during the offseason, threw a pitch that sailed over Valentine's head and out of the mitt of Brewer catcher Charlie Moore.

Valentine dropped his bat and took three steps toward the mound and Wright came down to meet him. Valentine threw the first punch and the pair then tumbled to the ground.

During the altercation, the Angels' Frank Robinson, who was in the on-deck circle, took several swings at Moore.

Angel team physician Dr. Jules Rasinski said Valentine, who was hitting .333 with one homer and 17 RBIs, would be out "two to three weeks."

The California outfielder's left arm will be placed in a sling, Rasinski said.

"The pitch was right at my head," said Valentine. "If I hadn't managed to get out of the way, it would have hit me right in the face."

"I knew something was going to happen; I had it in my mind. If he hits me, he hits me. If I were anywhere except right at my face, I was just going to take my base and say 'That's all for Carlos.'"

The victory was the third straight triumph on the pro tour for Jackson, a former NCAA champion from Texas-El Paso.

Other early winners in the near capacity filled Garden included hurdler Rod Milburn and sprinter Wyomia Tyus who finished the season unbeaten in their respective specialties.

Milburn, considered the world's finest hurdler and 1972 Olympic champion, captured the 60-yard high hurdles in 6.9 seconds. Earlier this year in an ITA meet at Salt Lake City, Milburn set the world indoor best for the event with a 6.7 clocking.

Miss Tyus, a two-time Olympic gold medal winner, finished first in the women's 60-yard dash in 6.3 seconds.

Valentine injured in fight with hurler

ANAHEIM (UPI) — The California Angels' Bobby Valentine suffered a dislocated left shoulder in a first inning fight with former teammate Clyde Wright Wednesday night.

The victory was the third straight triumph on the pro tour for Jackson, a former NCAA champion from Texas-El Paso.

Other early winners in the near capacity filled Garden included hurdler Rod Milburn and sprinter Wyomia Tyus who finished the season unbeaten in their respective specialties.

Milburn, considered the world's finest hurdler and 1972 Olympic champion, captured the 60-yard high hurdles in 6.9 seconds. Earlier this year in an ITA meet at Salt Lake City, Milburn set the world indoor best for the event with a 6.7 clocking.

Miss Tyus, a two-time Olympic gold medal winner, finished first in the women's 60-yard dash in 6.3 seconds.

Pitcher balks home decisive run as Twins nip Sox in 13th

BOSTON (UPI) — Diego Segul balked home Rod Carew with the deciding run in the 13th inning Wednesday night to lift the Minnesota Twins to a 5-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox in a three-hour 52-minute marathon.

Luis Gomez started the 13th with a single and was forced by Carew. After Carew went to third on Larry Hiale's single, Segul started his motion and designated hitter Jerry Terrell stepped out of the box without calling time.

Segul pulled back instead of continuing with his motion and home plate umpire Merle Anthony called the balk. The Red Sox protested mildly to no avail.

US eagles win

LAHTI, Finland (UPI) — The U.S. national basketball team routed Finland, 90-46, today in the first of two games the squads play.

The U.S. team, leading 46-27 at the half, used a full court press and a zone defense that baffled the Finnish guards trying to bring the ball upcourt and forced numerous errors.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

This shows how the news reports shape history. On Oct. 8, 1871, Chicago caught fire. About 300 people died there. There were four deaths in the logging town of Peshtigo, Wis., likewise caught fire. But the great forest around it. And about 1,150 died there. But Peshtigo's telegraph lines burned down. So the news was late getting out. And what with all the print about Chicago, there was little room left in the papers for stories on Peshtigo. Not one citizen in 1,000 is aware now that the Chicago fire was the lesser of that day's holocausts.

Young lady, the chemical contents in your tears vary, depending on why you shed them. Tears brought out by onions just aren't the same as tears turned loose in sorrow. That has been reported, although the why of it remains a mystery. But the medical boys are going on with their research in this matter. And their latest discovery is that weeping in sadness also temporarily alters the chemical makeup of the blood.

WAGE
Q I'm 36. What was the minimum wage when I was born?
A Just 25 cents an hour.

Certainly no single girl should forget the immortal words of Clara Beeble Lucre, as follows: "When a woman is alone, there are four things she must do. Dress like a girl, act like a lady, think like a man, and work like a horse."

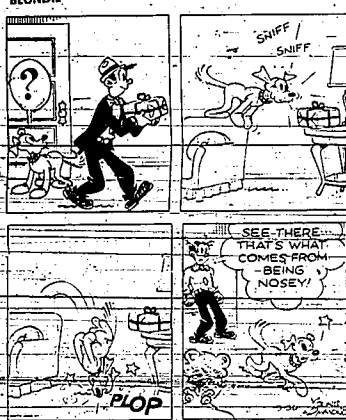

Statistically, the marriage least likely to end in divorce is between the widow and widower who had been married each but once previously, research reveals.

Interesting theory, this. Say your bank credited your account every morning with $1,440. But it carried over no balance to the next day. What part of that money you laid to use during the day was simply cancelled out of your account. You paid no interest for the use of it. But it earned no interest for you, either. What would you do with such a source of revenue? Spend it daily as completely, and as wisely as possible, no doubt. It's the philosopher's claim that you do have such a bank account. Called Time. And if you fail to spend the day's 1,440 minutes in a duly manner, you're doing something "wrong, sir."

Again, an asked-if the name of that famous dish is Welsh rabbit or Welsh rarebit? It's rabbit, correctly. But made of cheese. A joke name. Like Bombay duck, which is fish. And Colonial goose, which is mutton.

How to buy a bug a little bit at a time.

First say to yourself, "I'd like to buy a bug a little bit at a time."

And if you've got $599.00 for a cash down payment, you can have the whole car and pay for it little by little $69.98 a month for 37 months.

(If you don't have an adding machine handy, that works out to a deferred payment plan of $3188.26, which includes a finance charge at an ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE of 12.95%.)

Along the way, you get a little financial help from the car.

Such as an average 25 miles to the gallon. Pints of oil to fill it up instead of quarts of oil.

And no outlays for antifreeze at all.

Of course, you might be the kind that says to himself, "I don't like borrowing money."

In that case the cash price is $2734.00.
